

The Netherlands adopted the Belgian form for the Declaration of Conformity, whereby they give the freedom to the manufacturer to use one or more languages as mentioned on that form, provided it contains at least the Dutch language.